4. PRESENTATION OF THE VISITOR AND CONVENTION BUREAU'S AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION'S 2014-15 YEAR-END REPORT. City Manager Haydon introduced Glenn Morris, President/CEO of the Santa Maria Valley Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Morris explained the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce was to create a strong local economy. Two key tools the Chamber uses to help do that are the Economic Development Commission (EDC) and Visitor and Convention Bureau (VCB) Programs. Prior to introducing the presenters of the evening, he acknowledged Board Chair Eddie Murray, and Board Members Donna Randolph and Ed Carcarey who were in the audience.

Gina Keough, VCB Manager, gave the 2014-15 year-end report. She indicated the Transient Occupancy Tax (TOT) total for the year was $3,224,412. This was an increase of 13 percent from the 2013-14 total and the majority of the increase occurred from January through June. She attributed the increase to warmer than normal weather, consumer spending confidence, positive press releases, and the impact of special events in the City. The VCB fielded 1,200 visitor inquiries and assisted 66 groups or event planners. They also distributed 2,500 visitor guides at Visitor Outreach Centers in California. The VCB received 1,253 advertising leads through travel magazines and their website. Ms. Keough said the Chamber's quarterly website newsletter is available for anyone who would like to sign-up. The Santa Maria Valley On-Line BBQ Blog received more than 58,000 views.

Ms. Keough stated the VCB's international outreach included a presence in the Canadian Traveler and the International Traveler Chinese directory. She acknowledged Mooncatcher Media Relations, the company that is in charge of the Community Relations Program for the VCB. She also cited the Santa Maria Valley as being a huge draw for people who love food, particularly since the valley offers locally grown produce, excellent restaurants, and wineries. This year, VCB participated in various trade shows included the Bakersfield Expo, the Bay Area Travel Show, and Sunset Magazine's Sunset Celebration. She thanked Karen Gridiron and Scott Shute with Radisson Santa Maria and Kristin Palera at the Historic Santa Maria Inn for their support and attendance at trade shows.

The VCB remains an on-line presence with Facebook and Twitter under the name of Visit Santa Maria. They are also a part of Visit California and Central Coast Tourism Council, both of which have helped with advertising costs. Ms. Keough thanked the City of Santa Maria Recreation and Parks Department for their collaborations, as well.

Ms. Keough commented that the VCB looks forward to increasing their partnership with Santa Maria and Los Alamos wineries. On November 3rd, Visit California will be coming to Santa Maria and will feature the VCB's Industry Relations Representative, Brian Tucker, as the featured speaker. The event will be held at the Far Western Tavern. Other things to look forward to include the release of a brand new 2016 Visitor's Guide full-size magazine complete with partnership advertising. The National Tour Association features links to the VCB's website and the number of views has been considerably high.

The VCB will be going to San Diego and Los Angeles trade shows in February 2016. And, the VCB recently renewed their presence in California Welcome Centers in Oxnard and Pismo Beach.

Councilmember Waterfield asked if the VCB had ever considered advertising in the Phoenix metropolitan area because that group is only 1-1/2 hours away by plane and she thought it might be appealing to get out of the heat.

Ms. Keough responded that a prior opportunity to collaborate had been explored when the Santa Maria Public Airport had flights to area, but the VCB was always open to future opportunities.

Councilmember Zuniga asked if there was any way to actually track the observed growth in tourism or if it was an assumption. She also asked if there was any feedback opportunities available to visitors.

Ms. Keough responded that the VCB had asked hotels what comments they were getting from tourists and learned the most common comments were about getting out of the heat. Local events through businesses, weddings, etc. were quantifiable and could be counted, so they were confident of their statistics. Regarding feedback cards or surveys, Ms. Keough responded that a few years ago, cards had been available to tourists in the hotels and restaurants offering a free dessert or glass of wine in exchange for completing the card, but that had been in approximately 2007 and it was probably time to do a survey again.

Mayor Patino asked if the VCB was directing any advertising North given that there is a new direct flight out of Santa Maria to San Francisco.

Ms. Keough responded that the VCB has participated in trade shows in San Francisco and there was also a flight to Dublin out of San Francisco that the VCB had publicized with, but they had not worked in the airport itself. She acknowledged that placing the new Visitor Guide in the brochure holders at the airport might encourage more travel to Santa Maria. She thanked the Mayor and Council for their time.

Chamber CEO Glenn Morris introduced and acknowledged Dave Cross, Director of the Economic Development Commission, for the work he has done for the Chamber of Commerce and his upcoming retirement from the Chamber.

Dave Cross, Economic Development Director gave the 2014-15 year-end report. He indicated that the EDC could not do such successful program work without the support of the City of Santa Maria and the Santa Maria Airport. Mr. Cross congratulated Sara Voss, winner of the contest for a new Santa Maria Valley logo.

Over the past year, EDC has helped more than 150 new and existing businesses. More than 60 employers requested using EDC resources. Forty business representatives asked for direction. Thirty outside companies or their brokers requested local data and 26 start-ups and entrepreneurs approached the EDC. Mr. Cross gave a breakdown of his time working with EDC, saying most of his time was spent working with existing and new companies in Santa Maria, particularly on retention. His other duties involve manufacturers' forums and outreach, and collaboration with other departments and organizations.

The unemployment rate has steadily declined over the last year from 9 percent to about 5 percent. In January and February, the EDC did a local business confidence survey. Approximately, 235 businesses responded. Overall, the vast majority of businesses were very positive and optimistic that they would grow over the next year. New businesses to the community include Rabobank, N.A., Gibbs International Truck Center, a large logistical facility at the Santa Maria Airport, a new electrical supply building, and national restaurants and retailers. He explained what businesses look for as they move into the City. One quality is "trip counts." He thanked the Public Works Department for providing a map of trip counts within the City. He noted that Betteravia Road receives about 30,000 trips per day and that is why there has been a lot of interest in that area. The EDC also performs prospecting and retention of business by conducting site location and selection assistance; and coordinating with City Departments, commercial brokers, and community development.

New businesses coming into Santa Maria include Cocos Mexican Restaurant, a new car wash on East Chapel Road, and Hope Physical Therapy and Wellness, and the EDC was able to assist the Columbia Childrens' Center remain at their site.

Ways the EDC helps local small businesses include providing pre-permit project review; connecting the business with the appropriate City Department; linking the business to financial resources and funding options; providing business advice and counseling; connecting businesses to employer and workforce resources; providing demographic information and working to resolve business issues. The EDC also provides brochures letting a business know about free services, and new business start-up kits.

The EDC is very interested in working with new manufacturing companies in the area, because the annual salaries tend to be higher and staff turnover tends to be minimal. Current manufacturers in the area include Quintron Systems, Inc., Okonite Company, North American Fire Hose, Atlas Copco Mafi-Trench, and Zodiac Aerospace, and Prince Lionheart.

Mr. Cross recognized and thanked Heritage Oaks Bank for sponsoring Manufacturer Forums the last three years. Forums took place with Quintron Systems, Inc., Santa Maria Valley Railroad, PG&E Pump Efficiency workshop, Space Information Laboratories, and the Santa Barbara County Green Business Program.

EDC tours this year went through Images Screenprinting, Santa Maria Energy Oil Fields, Lineage Logistics, and the Santa Maria Police Building. Past factory tours were with Helical Products, Okonite, Apio, Inc., Hardy Diagnostics, Zodiac Aerospace, Windset Farms, and North American Fire Hose.

The annual Salute to Industry Luncheon took place on July 8 and recognized some of the top employers in the area, the revenue they help provide to the City of Santa Maria, and their impact on smaller businesses they work with.

Mr. Cross continued his presentation saying the EDC meets regularly with the Santa Maria Public Airport building community support and assisting with airport surveys and other projects. He stated the EDC continues to advertise both locally and on a national level.

Special events this year included a Small Business Outreach Event at Vandenberg Air Force Base in April, the Quintron Technology Expo in July, the Veterans Academy in May, and the International Brothers of Electrical Work Apprentice Program Book Scholarship. The EDC is also the administrator of the Santa Barbara County Energy Watch Partnership Program which has helped over 300 businesses in Santa Maria with an average energy savings of $1,600 per business. The Elks Club saved over $15,000 in energy costs.

Outreach events this last year took the EDC along with the County of Santa Barbara and Sheriff's Department, Fire, Planning, and Public Health to surrounding communities such as New Cuyama, Tanglewood, Casmalia, and Sisquoc.

Mr. Cross closed his presentation saying September 30 would be his last day with the EDC. He thanked everyone for their support.

Mayor Patino thanked Mr. Cross for the six years he has worked with the EDC saying they were some tough years financially and she appreciated his perseverance.

Councilmember Orach expressed his gratitude for Mr. Cross's effort with the Veteran's Memorial Center and for forging the strong relationship the City has with Vandenberg Air Force Base.

Councilmember Zuniga thanked Mr. Cross for his support over the years, particularly toward the non-profits she worked with. She also acknowledged his efforts with local restauranteurs in the success of their establishment.

Councilmember Boysen thanked Mr. Cross for his straight-forwardness and honesty.

Councilmember Waterfield recalled the first time she met Mr. Cross when he was trying to go through the permitting process when she worked the Economic Development Association. She thanked him for his endurance in the community.

City Manager Haydon thanked Mr. Cross for his years of service to the City bringing businesses into the community and retaining them. He reiterated the City's appreciation for establishing the strong relationship with Vandenberg, and for his support of manufacturing businesses.

5. SENIOR HOUSING AUTHORIZATION – EAST BARCELLUS AVENUE. The City Council considered a recommendation of the Planning Commission to authorize a General Plan Amendment, and Zone Change (SP2015-0013) of a 2.4 acre site in the CPO (Commercial Professional Office) district to PD/R-3 (Planned Development/High Density Residential) zone district, for an 80-unit senior housing project located at 502, 510, and 524 East Barcellus Avenue.

Community Development Director Appel gave a presentation as detailed in the Council Agenda Report. Back in 2008, the applicants processed a permit that would have allowed three medical buildings on the property. It was later determined that there was a lack of demand for that, so they are now pursuing a request for senior housing. With the approval of this request, the applicants would be allowed to build in high density residential zoning. At 2.73 acres, the applicants could be allowed 71 units. Through a bonus-density program, the State would allow additional units bringing the total to 80.

Applicant Comments
Brian Schwartz, of Urban Planning Concepts (UPC), introduced Brian Tetley, also of UPC, and the applicant Mark Fugate. Mr. Schwartz gave a PowerPoint presentation and discussed how ideal the site is for senior housing, particularly as it is so close to many stores, the bus route, the post office and other amenities. He reiterated that since 2008, there has been no interest in medical buildings on the site and now the applicant would like to request a re-zone to put in much needed senior housing. The buildings would be two and three story buildings surrounding a central courtyard with a pool. There would also be an on-site gym, a putting green, and garden for the residents. The facility would be for seniors 55 years or older.

Councilmembers each disclosed their ex parte communications with the developer, Mr. Fugate, and project planner, Urban Planning Concepts.

Public Comment
Ken Hough, representing SBCAN, spoke positively about the project and stated that SBCAN encourages Council to direct staff to move forward with the rezone. He also asked that Council encourage green building techniques such as solar panels and drought resistant landscaping. He encouraged having a range of apartment sizes so some of the units may be more affordable than others.

Council Discussion
There was no Council Discussion.

Direction to Staff
Staff was authorized to initiate a General Plan Amendment and Zone Change to High Density Residential and Planned Development/High Density Residential for an 80-unit senior residential complex on 2.4 acres at 502, 510, and 524 East Barcellus Avenue on motion by Councilmember Waterfield, seconded by Councilmember Orach, and carried on the following vote: 5-0
